Chapter Tactics:

If you include Gabriel Angelos, then all friendly units from Codex: Space Marines exchange the Combat Tactics special rule with the Counter Attack universal special rule. In addition, if he is brought as your Warlord, then Librarians from Codex: Space Marines may also roll on the Divination table, along with the other psychic disciplines already allowed to Librarians.

My Faith is my Shield:

This ability applies only to Imperial allies. Gabriel stands as a shining beacon of the Emperor's faith and fury among his brothers in arms, inspiring them to fight on with greater vigor. Every unit within 6" of Gabriel gains the Stubborn universal special rule. Conversely, all Chaos-alligned units within 6" of him, enemy or ally, suffers a -1 Ld deduction, to a minimum of 6.

Adamantine Mantle:

This is a cape made of adamantium fibers strung into a tight weave, which is adept at deflecting damage. This mantle confers to Gabriel a 4+ Invulnerable save.

God Splitter is a Master-Crafted Thunder Hammer with the following profile:

Weapon	Range	S	AP	Type
God-Splitter	-	x2	2	Melee, Concussive, Specialist Weapon, Unwieldy, My Foe Shall Fall!*

My Foe Shall Fall!:

Gabriel may instead of his regular close combat attacks perform the following attack: Gabriel swings his Daemonhammer with all his might at a single enemy, causing massive damage to his target but he may only attack once. Roll a d3 when assaulting, if the result is 1: his attack will automatically miss. If the result is 2: his attack will count as Strength 9 and has the Rending and Concussive universal special rule. If the result is 3, his attack counts as Strength 10 and has the Armourbane, Concussive, and Crushing Blow special rules.

Crushing Blow:

A model suffering an unsaved wound from a weapon with this rule reduces their armor save by D3. For example, A Tau Empire Riptide suffers an unsaved wound from God Splitter, so it rolls a D3; the result is a 2, so the armor save of the Riptide changes from a 2+ to a 4+.
