BIO: Heinrich was initially a member of the Death Corps of Krieg. His uncanny knack for uncovering people's true intentions and his low tolerance for corruption of any kind led him to report his commander for heretical conversations he overheard. After an imperial inquisitor executed the commander, Heinrich was taken on as an acolyte. Having been trained under the tutelage of an Ordo Herectus Inquisitor, Heinrich took more of an interest in the Malleus disciple and often considers himself an expert in that field.

UNIT: Grey Knights, Harvester Brotherhood		NAME: Ajax Hectare
ASSIGNMENT: Justicar of Squad 1
BIO: Ajax's age is unknown, approximately 150. What is known is that his father had brought him along to Fedrid as part of an illegal hunting party. While the exact cause is unknown, Ajax and a small group of others became stranded on the world. Over the course of several years, the party was thinned by local wildlife and exposure to the elements leaving only Ajax. He was found (5)958001M03 by an imperial assassin who was tracking a renegade criminal. The agent, realizing the potential in the boy for having survived on his own for so long, brought Ajax back to Titan for screening and testing. Having passed his initial Grey Knight training, he was known to be calm and unyielding under pressure. At the recommendation of Commander Nero, Ajax was chosen to lead squad 1.

WARLORD: Octavian Ordos	WARLORD: unknown
TACTICIAN: Erik Kline / Eric Dorn	TACTICIAN: Matt Helton / James McLaughlin

OTHER NOTES: First battle for the Harvesters Brotherhood. What started as a conflict between the Eldar and Tau forces was determined to require imperial interdiction before escalation. As the chapter's stormravens were still under construction, Octavian lead available forces with only Land Raider Pius for support by direction of Inquisitor Heinrich Boch. A new type of Tau Riptide was encountered specializing in close combat that inflicted heavy casualties. Data collected on the new threat has been sent to the Ordo Xenos for evaluation. Ultimately the Iaido-Ryu Biker Clan was held accountable for withholding vital information regarding the capabilities of hostile forces.

TACTICIAN: Erik Kline	TACTICIAN: Eric Dorn / Matt Helton

OTHER NOTES: While following up on reports of unusual activity, Inquisitor Karamazov and his personal guard encountered an elder force with unknown intentions. As the battle began it became apparent that the elder were responding to an impending Necron tomb world incursion. With the support of the Harvesters 1st air wing, Karamazov was able to lead his troops inflict heavy casualties to the elder before abandoning the sector to the overwhelming Necron force. During the battle Grand Master Octavian Ordos slew an Eldar Wraithknight in close combat.

OTHER NOTES: Now operating at full strength, the Harvesters decided to go after the the Iaido-Ryu Biker Clan. After initial scouting by the Chapters purifier squad, the Harvesters descended into battle. Xiphons Fire and Brimstone attempted to clear a landing zone of hostile targets but where brought down under a barrage of ground fire. The chapter's stormravens proved to be very effective in delivering their terminator cargo where it was needed. The battle went in favor of the Eldar as two Wraithknights showed up. Knowing defeat was inevitable; Grandmaster Octavian led a charge slaying the enemy warlord and his body guard. Dreadnought Reap was also able to take a vital bunker and sacrificed himself against one of the Wraithknights earning Octavian the Gold Cross. Request teleport homers be sent from imperial supply for more accurate drops in future missions.
